It's historically known that all our books cover the current and best education practices. Thus, many of the learning resources in this catalogue come from PMA's business of working in collaboration with international publishers who have significant expertise and proficiencies in developing learning materials and resources for the Asian and international school markets over a long period of time.

Some of the new titles featured in this catalogue are the new Hodder Science, Physics, Chemistry and Biology for the secondary level and Macmillan Education's Max Computing for the primary.

A Fluffy and Fuzzy Make Friends

Get ready
Label these things that you see in the sky.
the sun the moon stars a cloud rain a rainbow an aeroplane a rocket

Reading
Read this story about some children. What are they doing? Who do they meet?

Word bank
1. To swoop is to fly fast.
2. If you are delighted, you are very pleased.
3. If you invite someone, you ask them to join you for a meal or a party.
4. To spoil something means to make it bad.

Fluffy and Fuzzy were two little clouds sailing in the sky one day. They looked down and saw four children playing in their garden. Nearby was a table set for tea. The clouds swooped down. 'Hello,' said Fluffy. 'This is my friend, Fluffy. May we play with you?' The children were delighted to meet clouds that could talk.

'I'm Munira.'
'I'm Amir.'
'I'm Arif.'
'I'm Rayan.'

They invited the clouds for tea. Just then big raindrops began to fall. Pater-patter fell the raindrops. 'Oh no!' cried the children. 'The rain will spoil our tea party!' 'No, it won't,' said Fluffy. 'Fuzzy and I can carry your table to a branch on a tree where it will be quite safe.' 'Quick! Let's make a ladder right up to the treetop,' said Arif.

SKILL IN ENGLISH BOOK 2, PAGE 47, 48

Luckily for Pinocchio, that night the little cricket found his cries and opened the lock using his strong back legs. With the cricket in his pocket, Pinocchio ran home as fast as his wooden legs would carry him.

'I'm home, Papa! I'm home!' he cried, hanging on the door. But the house was empty and dark. Some friendly creatures told them what had happened.

'Geppetto was looking for you,' said a droffle.

'...and he got into a boat... added a spider... and he sailed away and then...'

'...he was swallowed' by a huge WHALE! ended a little ladybird hopping up and down.

'Oh no!' cried Pinocchio. 'We have to save him!'

When they reached the seashore, Pinocchio dived into the waves and swam.

Suddenly, the water started moving under him. A monstrous blue whale came out of the water and swallowed him up! Down, down, down into the whale's stomach Pinocchio swam.

There he saw a little boy — and on it was Geppetto! Geppetto was overjoyed to see his son again.

'You came to save me,' he said. 'But now we will both be here for ever!'

But Pinocchio had a brilliant idea.

'Come on, Papa, we have to build a fire!'

'A fire? In here? We can't do that!'

Word bank
3. If you swallow something, it goes down your throat and into your stomach.
4. Monstrous means being very large.

'Yes, we can!' said Pinocchio. They collected all the wood they could find, and lit a fire in the belly of the whale. Soon, the whale started to feel really ill. Finally, it let out a huge sneeze. 'Achoooooo!'

Geppetto and Pinocchio shot out of the whale's mouth and landed on the shore. Geppetto crawled to Pinocchio. 'Speak to me, son,' he cried. 'Speak to me!'

But the little puppet lay lifeless and still.

As his father lay weeping, a swirl of tiny lights appeared. It was the blue-haired fairy! She tapped her wand, and a shower of fairy dust rained down on the lifeless figure. Slowly, his gained hair became soft and his long wooden nose and elbows became smooth, his gained hair became soft and his long wooden nose shrank until it was a sweet little button. Then he opened his eyes. 'I'm real,' he said, 'I'm a real boy!'

'Yes,' said the fairy. 'You rescued your father. You are now a real boy.'

And Geppetto and his little boy and their friend the cricket lived happily ever after.

Word bank
4. If someone is lifeless, they are dead, or they seem to be dead.
5. If you rescue someone, you save them from a dangerous situation.
